I am writing to apply for the North America Field Marketing and Events Manager position at Rithum. Rithum's role as a commerce network connecting brands, suppliers, and retailers is impressive, and I am drawn to the challenge of driving regional engagement through strategic events and localized marketing.

My background is in full-stack software engineering, with a focus on building scalable e-commerce platforms. I have developed multi-vendor marketplace systems, integrated payment gateways, and implemented role-based access controls for complex user ecosystems. This experience has given me a strong understanding of how e-commerce operations work across different stakeholders, from sellers and buyers to logistics teams.

What stands out to me about this role is the emphasis on planning and executing a diverse portfolio of events while tracking measurable outcomes. In my development work, I have always been responsible for defining project goals, coordinating with cross-functional teams, and monitoring performance metrics to ensure delivery aligns with business objectives. I am comfortable managing budgets, timelines, and vendor relationships, and I approach every project with a focus on clear communication and continuous improvement.

In addition to my technical experience, I work effectively across multidisciplinary teams and communicate clearly with both technical and non-technical stakeholders. I am fluent in Bengali and English, have working knowledge of Russian and Hindi, and enjoy collaborating in international and cross-cultural environments.

I have attached my CV for your review and would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background in e-commerce and project management can contribute to Rithum's field marketing efforts in North America.

Sincerely,
