I am writing to apply for the Digital Media & Content Manager role at RFM MediaMix AG. The combination of client campaign work and owned marketing caught my attention, because I enjoy working across both analytical and creative sides of a project.

Through my work as a full-stack developer, I have built platforms where content structure, SEO, and data visibility matter. I developed a newsroom management dashboard using Next.js and Material UI, where editors could manage articles, schedule posts, and track publishing workflows. That experience taught me how to organize content so it is easy to find, edit, and measure.

I am comfortable with data. In several projects, I built reporting systems that pulled metrics from databases and presented them clearly. I know how to set up tracking, read numbers, and ask the right questions about what is working. I approach data the same way the job describes: not as a spreadsheet exercise, but as a way to make better decisions.

On the content side, I have written blog articles, structured SEO-friendly pages, and managed multilingual content for a travel agency platform. I understand that good content is not just about writing, but about making sure people can find it and that it represents the brand well.

In addition to my technical experience, I work effectively across multidisciplinary teams and communicate clearly with both technical and non-technical stakeholders. I am fluent in Bengali and English, have working knowledge of Russian and Hindi, and enjoy collaborating in international and cross-cultural environments.

I have attached my CV for your review. I would welcome the chance to discuss how I can contribute to both client campaigns and RFM’s own marketing.

Sincerely,
