I am writing to apply for the Art Director position at Maker Lab. Your focus on building decentralised, technology-led agency teams and embedding specialists directly with clients aligns with how I prefer to work: collaboratively, with clear ownership, and with a focus on real outcomes rather than process.

While my professional background is in software engineering, I have consistently worked at the intersection of design and technology. In my web development work, I have been responsible for translating creative concepts into functional, visually coherent interfaces. This has given me hands-on experience with visual direction, layout design, and asset creation across digital platforms, always with an eye on brand consistency and user experience.

One area that particularly interests me is the social-first, culturally aware approach described in this role. In previous projects, I have built responsive UIs using Next.js, Tailwind CSS, and Material UI, where I had to think carefully about how layouts, typography, and visual hierarchy would perform across different devices and platforms. I am comfortable moving between strategic thinking and hands-on execution, and I understand the importance of staying tuned into digital culture and platform behaviours.

In addition to my technical experience, I work effectively across multidisciplinary teams and communicate clearly with both technical and non-technical stakeholders. I am fluent in Bengali and English, have working knowledge of Russian and Hindi, and enjoy collaborating in international and cross-cultural environments.

I have attached my CV for your review. Thank you for considering my application.
