I am writing to apply for the Creative role at The Elites. Your agency's focus on building employer brands that move candidates and employees to action resonates with how I approach my own work: with purpose, clarity, and a focus on real impact.

My background is in software engineering, but I have always approached development as a creative discipline. Building a platform from scratch requires the same kind of thinking that goes into a campaign: understanding the audience, defining the message, and crafting an experience that feels intuitive and engaging. I have designed and built full-stack applications including an AI-powered financial platform, a travel agency system with multi-language and multi-currency support, and a real-time communication engine. Each of these projects started with a problem and required creative ideation to turn it into a working solution.

One area that particularly interests me is the intersection of technology and storytelling. In my work on the Travel Agency App for 2Expedition, I was responsible for the entire user experience from UI design using Next.js and Tailwind CSS to backend architecture with NestJS and MySQL. The platform needed to present destinations and tours in a way that inspired travelers while handling complex booking workflows behind the scenes. That balance between creative presentation and functional reliability is something I enjoy and do well.

In addition to my technical experience, I work effectively across multidisciplinary teams and communicate clearly with both technical and non-technical stakeholders. I am fluent in Bengali and English, have working knowledge of Russian and Hindi, and enjoy collaborating in international and cross-cultural environments.

I have attached my CV for your review. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background could contribute to the creative work at The Elites.

Sincerely,

Md Shahanur Islam Shagor
