I am writing to express my interest in the Profesor/a de Espaˆ–ol (ELE) position at Apprentus. Although my professional background is in software engineering, I have always enjoyed teaching and working with people from different cultures. I am confident that my communication skills and experience in multilingual environments will allow me to connect with students and deliver effective Spanish lessons.

I have strong verbal and written communication skills, developed through years of collaborating with international teams and clients. I am fluent in Bengali and English, and I have working knowledge of Russian and Hindi. This multilingual experience gives me a practical understanding of the challenges language learners face, and I am patient and adaptable when explaining concepts to others.

In addition to my technical work, I have experience mentoring junior developers and helping them learn new technologies. I enjoy breaking down complex topics into simple, understandable steps and tailoring my approach to each individual's learning style. I believe this same approach will translate well into teaching Spanish to students of varying levels.

I am organized, reliable, and comfortable working with flexible schedules. I understand the importance of creating a supportive and encouraging learning environment, and I am committed to helping students build confidence in their Spanish skills.

I have attached my CV for your review. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background and teaching approach can contribute to the Apprentus team.

Sincerely,

Md Shahanur Islam Shagor
