I am writing to apply for the Online Virtual Scheduling Assistant position at Destination Careers. Your focus on delivering seamless travel planning experiences and supporting a team of advisors through strong organization and coordination resonates with how I approach my own work.

While my background is in software engineering, the core skills that define this role are ones I have developed and relied on throughout my career. Managing complex web development projects has required me to coordinate multiple workstreams, track tight deadlines, communicate clearly with clients and team members, and maintain organized schedules across different time zones. These are the same skills needed to support travel advisors in managing consultations, appointments, and travel timelines.

One area where I have consistently delivered is in maintaining clear and professional communication with stakeholders. Whether coordinating feature releases, following up on project milestones, or ensuring that nothing falls through the cracks, I have built a workflow around reliability and attention to detail. I am comfortable using scheduling tools, email platforms, and calendar systems to keep everything running smoothly.

In addition to my organizational skills, I work effectively across multidisciplinary teams and communicate clearly with both technical and non-technical stakeholders. I am fluent in Bengali and English, have working knowledge of Russian and Hindi, and enjoy collaborating in international and cross-cultural environments.

I am looking for a remote role where I can apply my organizational strengths in a new context, and Destination Careers seems like a great place to grow. I have attached my CV for your review and would welcome the opportunity to discuss how I can support your team.

Sincerely,

Md Shahanur Islam Shagor
